

Nantwich Town Centre Plan

Places of Interest

- ① St Mary's Church - This magnificent and beautiful sandstone church often called 'The Cathedral of South Cheshire' was built around the 14th century.
- ② Nantwich War Memorial - Commemorating the fallen of WW1 and WW2.
- ③ The Crown Hotel - Rebuilt in 1583 after the great fire. This Grade II listed building has an exquisite gallery window on the third floor, stunning Georgian ballroom and original wattle and daub construction.
- ④ 46 High Street - Now a book shop this beautiful Tudor house was built in 1584.
- ⑤ Queen's Aid House - Built by Thomas Cleese after the great fire in 1584. An inscription can be viewed thanking Queen Elizabeth for her generous donation towards the towns reconstruction.
- ⑥ The Pillory - In the middle ages wrongdoers were imprisoned here for the whole town to see. Sometimes afterwards they were transported and ducked into the town's cess pit.
- ⑦ Nantwich Player's Theatre - Originally the Quakers meeting house built in the 16th century. This quaint theatre is locally run, hosting six plays a year and a youth production.
- ⑧ Nantwich Museum - Discover all about Nantwich. With regular changing special exhibitions, there is always something new to see.
- ⑨ Millennium Clock - Designed by Paul Beckett to celebrate the new millennium.
- ⑩ Sweetbriar Hall - Built in the late 15th century for the Wilbraham family, this is one of the few buildings to escape the great fire of 1583.
- ⑪ Churche's Mansion & Adam Antiques - Built in 1577 by Thomas Cleese for Rychard & Margerye Churche. This is one of the oldest buildings in Nantwich. Featured on 'Most Haunted: Midsummer Murders' with Yvette Fielding in 2007.
- ⑫ Almshouses - The Crewe Almshouse was built in 1767. The Wright Almshouses seen through a beautiful archway were originally built in 1638 on London Road and moved here in 1974 stone by stone.
- ⑬ Nantwich Baths & Outdoor Brine Pool - Our unique outdoor pool is possibly the last in the country. With aqua fit and family fun sessions there is something for everyone.
- ⑭ The Cheshire Cat - Originally three cottages, then converted into The Widows' Almshouse in 1676 by Roger Wilbraham. Today a charming bar, restaurant and hotel. Outside the sandstone steps were used to dismount horses.
- ⑮ Nantwich Canal & Marina - Relax and take a stroll along the tranquil canal, enjoy lunch at the quayside café or hire a narrowboat for a great day out.
- ⑯ Airman's Memorial - In remembrance of 1st Lieutenant Arthur Brown whose plane crashed here on the 14th of January 1944.
